

given by novelist Xian-yong Bai and playwright An-chi Wang. In addition, the five famous actors from the GuoGuang Opera Company were invited to perform mini skits, as well as share how to combine tradition and innovation to make traditional plays more appealing. The activity helped people better understand Kunqu opera, Beijing opera, and their transformation in Taiwan.

Actors demonstrate acting skills

■ Opening of New Taipei and Taitung Area Regional Resource Centers

To help public libraries integrate resources and develop services, the NCL started the “Project for the Resource Integration and Development of Public Libraries” in 2013. Four Regional Resource Centers in the northern, central, southern, and eastern regions of Taiwan and eight Area Regional Resource Centers will be established over four years.

The New Taipei Area Regional Resource Center was established in the main branch of the New Taipei Public Library. It opened on June 4. Director General Tseng expressed in her remarks that the New Taipei Regional Resource Center combines local features and youth-themed holdings, with the hope that it can embolden more talented youths to become involved in creative works, increase creative inspiration, and encourage youths and other county residents to make use of the abundant resources available.

Group photo at the New Taipei Area Regional Resource Center

The Taitung Area Regional Resource Center, located in the Taitung County Government building, opened on June 3. The Center’s holdings focus primarily on cultural creative books. Books can be accessed via an interlibrary loan system to increase the use of these library resources.

Group photo at the Taitung Area Regional Resource Center

■ “A Tribute to Ya Hsien” Series of Activities

The NCL and Trend Education Foundation co-sponsored “A tribute to Ya Hsien” series of activities focusing on the works and literary contributions of the poet Ya Hsien. Exhibitions, seminars and many other activities were organized in view of a sustained dissemination of the seeds