

international Sinologists may get to better know the achievements of Taiwan Chinese Studies research and the current publishing situation thereby strengthening academic cooperation and exchanges.

Besides allowing scholars from around the world to browse through the books and materials exhibited and make orders as well, after the conference, the books exhibited were donated to the University of Washington and the University of Oregon to enrich their respective library collections, providing local researchers with related resource materials.

NCL staff and representatives of book donation recipients at the AAS Book Fair.

■ Workshop on Books Acquisition in Public Libraries and School Libraries

In March, the NCL held a workshop on Books Acquisition in Public Libraries and School Libraries in the north, central, east, and south regions of Taiwan. Those invited to attend and share their experiences in acquisitions were county and city cultural bureaus that purchase for the government, libraries, the Public Construction Commission Executive Yuan, and book vendors who are responsible for purchasing books. Attendees reported being very happy with the workshops.

Each workshop attracts a packed audience.

NCL Publications

■ The Joy of Reading - Handbook for the 2015 Reading Habits Survey Results Press Conference and Model Book Borrower Commendation Ceremony

*Published in February 2016
ISBN: 978-957-678-614-3*

The NCL held the 2015 Reading Habits Survey Results Press Conference and Model Book Borrower Commendation Ceremony. Through the results of this survey, the yearly national reading habits and interests are better understood and served as a reference to plan out library innovation and service strategies.

LIS Seminars

■ Conference on Innovative Services and Emerging Trends of Libraries

Organizer: Interlibrary Cooperation Association, China Medical University

Date: January 21, 2016

Venue: China Medical University