

■ Basic Training Courses in Public Library Management Begin

In order to enhance library services and the professional skills and knowledge of library staff, in September the National Central Library (NCL) assisted New Taipei City and Tainan (臺南) City in hosting Basic Training Courses in Public Library Management. Seven scholars specializing in library information were invited to lecture for the course, providing library staff with a solid basic training.

At present, libraries should provide a diverse range of services. Besides maintaining an excellent attitude when serving the public, those employed by libraries must also ensure that they maintain the quality of their libraries' collections and that their activities to promote reading meet the needs of readers. Librarians must continuously train to meet the challenges of providing services.

The lecturers spoke on the following topics: NCL Director-General, Shu-hsien Tseng (曾淑賢): "The Design of Library Spaces and Environments"; NCL editor, Hui-chen Cheng (鄭惠珍): "Developing Library Collections and Procurement"; NCL editor,

Shu-fen Hung (洪淑芬): "Using the NCL's Digital Resources and E-Learning Campus"; Prof. Nei-ching Yeh (葉乃靜): "Reader Services and Reading Promotion"; Prof. Pao-nuan Hsieh (謝寶媛): "Quality Management and Customer Satisfaction"; Prof. Hao-ren Ke (柯皓仁): "Information Technology and Internet Management"; Prof. Tzu-heng Chiu (邱子恒): "Reference Resources and Services."

■ Reading Promotion Lecture Series in Autumn

2017 National Central Library (NCL) autumn reading promotion lecture series took place between August and October. The theme for this season is "Miraculous Foresight: Fortune-Telling, Geomancy, and Traditional Beliefs."

The lectures introduced many aspects of well-known writings and famous figures from the history of fortune-telling. They guided us through the rich, mysterious world of the traditional cultural practice of forecasting the future. The saying, "No. one, fate; No. two, luck; No. three, fengshui (風水); No.
