

The NCL Bulletin is an international, academic journal, with its two issues being published in June and December of 1947. As this periodical is to propagate library studies and information science, the NCL welcomes scholars to submit articles. Such papers should cover the theory and application of library and information science.

The NCL Bulletin is released in digital form from 2026 onwards. Manuscripts accepted for publication will be issued an honorarium based on government and NCL guidelines. Authors retain moral rights to their works, but the NCL Bulletin claims property rights. After publication, except for inclusion in the author's anthology, no person is allowed to reproduce, reprint, translate, etc., for any reason without the express written permission of the NCL Bulletin.
