

The NCL is holding an exhibition featuring a special selection of rare books in the library collection, along with block-print and hand-written reproductions, and modern republications. The exhibition will assist scholars in textual verification research and also provide examples for the study of the style of the different editions.

The exhibition opened on November 14, 2007, at the NCL Rare Books Room.

Touring Exhibition of Award-winning Government Publications

Forty government publications emerged as winners of this year's Outstanding Government Publications Award. Grimm Culture editor-in-chief Mr. Hau Kuang-tsai, Mr. Liu Ko-hsiang, director of the China Times literary supplement, and other literary leaders formed the jury that picked the winning works, which included books, AV materials, e-publications, periodicals and other types of government publication.

From Above Mountains of Taiwan and Historical Figures of Taiwan: Story of the Hakka People to the Illustrated Guide to Snails in Taiwan and Pearl of the Grasslands: The Formosan Ring-necked Pheasant, the winning works all well deserved the award for their outstanding content.

From November 1 to December 31, 2007, the publications winning this year's Outstanding Government Publications Award will be displayed at a touring exhibition stopping at 23 libraries across Taiwan, offering the public a chance to browse the titles free of charge.
