MOE Presents the National Outstanding Public Library Award

The Ministry of Education (MOE) presented the National Outstanding Public Library Award to 20 public libraries in Taiwan at an award-presentation ceremony held on March 18, 2009. Nearly 70 people attended the ceremony, including county, city and township heads and representatives of cultural bureaus and libraries.

The winners were chosen from among 530 township and city public libraries across Taiwan through a process of on-site visits, library selfevaluations, and public surveys. The ministry carried out the selection process in conjunction with the Library Association of the Republic of China (Taiwan) in November and December of 2008 as part of the ministry's 2008 program to encourage public library excellence.

Library in Hualien County, Da-an Township Library in Taichung County, and the Wenshan Branch of the Taipei Public Library, each of which received an award of NT$100,000. Among the six Silver Library Award winners were the Zuoying Branch of the Kaohsiung Public Library, Sanwan Township Library in Miaoli County, Wandan Township Library in Pingtung County, Luye Township Library in Taitung County, Sanchong City Library in Taipei County, and Xinshi Township Library in Tainan County, with a prize of NT$80,000 for each. An additional 10 libraries received the "Bronze Library Award" along with NT$60,000, including the Nan-ao Township Library in Yilan County. Most of the winning libraries were cited for originality in designing reading spaces, embodying local characteristics, integrating with community resources by displaying books at fast food restaurants, inns, train stations and other public areas, promoting the adoption of books, periodicals and library furniture, arranging family reading activities, and encouraging parent and volunteer participation in these events. ## NCL Taiwan Branch Reopens Family Resource Center

The Family Resource Center at the National Central Library (NCL) Taiwan Branch celebrated its reopening in late December of 2008 with a series of family reading activities. The center had been closed for renovations funded by the Ministry of Education (MOE).

The center boasts a collection of about 110,000 Chinese and foreign language children's books and attracts around 28,000 visitors in an average month. In June the library asked children to submit drawings of their perfect library to better understand and respond to the needs of young readers. The favorite themes of the children, including nature, forests, animals, were incorporated into the center design to create a reading environment evoking a fun and imaginative picture book. The periodical, reference and information retrieval areas on the basement level suggest a forest-like setting. "Traveling the World" was the theme of the foreign publication section on the second floor to encourage children to broaden their international horizons and learn about different cultures through books. On the basement level, there is also a "Happy Classroom" with spaces for parents to read to their kids, family book club meetings, and performance activities.

In 2009, the center also launched a monthly lecture series to guide readers toward deeper appreciation of books. The center has also adopted a new policy allowing readers to borrow books to take home. Readers also have a choice of borrowing books with individual, children's, or family library cards or EasyCards. The NCL Taiwan Branch has also teamed up with Hess Educational Foundation to create a Christmas tree and display cases old newspapers, cardboard boxes and other recycled materials. The displays promote the theme of environmental protection, while also further creating a fun environment for reading at the Family Resource Center.
